

ALL THEY WANT FOR CHRISTMAS . . . . IS THEIR NATURAL GAS TOYS

Sure, natural gas is all about home comfort and energy conservation and using America's own domestic energy resource – but the fact is, natural gas powers a whole range of appliances that can make Mom and Dad really, really happy.

And As The Builder, You Can Give It To Them.

Fight The Elements

Have you seen the look on Mom & Dad's face when they first settle in to their sparkling clean, super bubbly hot tub on a cool Florida evening? It's a cross between joy and serenity. And with natural gas, the water heats up in about an hour. The same system that heats the hot tub heats the swimming pool with just the flip of a switch.

Outdoor Cooking Always Tastes Better

Every man wants, needs and deserves a decent outdoor grill. Whether on wheels or built into a brick wall, a natural gas grill is a must-have for any self-respecting, football watching dad.

With no ashes to clean, no tanks to fill and the confidence that he'll never run out of natural gas in front of the in-laws, a natural gas grill makes the perfect gift.

A grill is just the beginning of the perfect outdoor kitchen. Take a look at the set-up above. After the plumbers and electricians do their part with the gas pipes, water lines and wires, the sky is the limit. Grills, cook-tops and refrigerators can all be safely installed in any environment. Viking was kind enough to lend us this photo in hopes of inspiring builders to greater creativity. Want to set yourself apart? Think outside the house.

The Gift That Keeps On Giving Light And Heat Outdoors

You can't run out of hot water with a tankless water heater. These little powerhouses are the wave of the future. When the whole family is getting ready for work, school and tennis at the same time, an endless supply of hot water is a must.

Plus, a tankless water heater gives homeowners back 16 cubic of garage space since it's mounted on a wall instead of the floor. Not to mention the incredible holiday joy of energy savings up to 70% on water heating costs.

One word. Ambience. Teach your homebuyers how to take advantage of Florida's moderate winter temperatures with a new chimenea and some outdoor lights. Stylish, warm, and decorous.

And For Mr. Builder . . .

Florida City Gas has significant builder allowances to help you offset the cost of building in natural gas appliances and infrastructure. Call us before you break ground. We can show you many ways to creatively position yourself in the minds of your customers - and earn more money while you're doing it.

 Happy Holidays from your friends at Florida City Gas.
